RAILROAD COMMISSION AIDS STOCK GROWERS

Acting upon an application of the California Cattlemen's Association the California Wool Growers Association, the California Farm Bureau Federation and Nevada County Farm Bureau, the Railroad Commission has amended a previous order closing grade and overhead crossings of the Victory Highway and the Southern Pacific tracks near Gold Run, Placer County, to permit the crossings to remain open for use of cattle and sheepmen. The first order required the closing of grade crossings upon the completion of an underpass near Towle.

The amended order states that a plan is now being worked out to provide, in so far as practicable, a separate passage-way for stock from the main traveled highway between Colfax and Donner Lake, a distance of about fifty miles. The retention of the two crossings will permit of the establishment of a separate trail for stock for a distance of about two miles, which also fits in with the major plan of stock trails thru that district.

STATE TRAFFIC FINES TOTAL $212,621.31 FOR SEVEN MONTHS

Out Of 32,937 Motorists Stopped Only 5,575 Arrests Were Made

By MELVIN LORD
(United Prass Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP—Nevada county motorists paid $1,980 in traffic fines during the first seven months of the year as a result of activities of members of the California state highway patrol.

Records of the patrol reveal that during the same period, the traffic fine total for the entire state, from the standpoint of state officers, amounted to $212,621.31.

While the amount represents what appears to be a large aggregate, officials pointed out that while patrolmen stopped 32,937 motorists, only 5,573 actual arrests were made during the period.

That difference in stops and arrests represents the policy of the patrol to give the motorist every opportunity to keep within the laws governing traffic on California's far-flung system of highways. This policy is based on the contention it is better to prevent rather than make arrests after accidents occur.

The record of activities of the patrol indicate the life of the highway officer is not devoted only to the questionaable pleasure of riding up and down his "beat" on a motorcycle.

As an example the record shows that 19,633 light warnings were issued, 28,014 light tests were made 1945 citations for speeding were issued in addition to 1,626 others for violations of road rules.

Los Angeles county led the state in collection of fines with a total of $28,122, while San Diego county was not far behind with $26,596.53.

Alpine county has only one patrolman, but no fines were collected during the seven-month period.

Chamber Of Commerce And Legion Post Endorse Bond Issue

With the announcement last week by the Directors of the Public Utility District that application was to be made to the Public Works Administration for a loan to take over the water systems and build and perate a publicly owned powe plant, interest in the projects has crystalized to the exent that they have been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Truckee Post of the American Legion.

A preliminary appliaction is being made this week to the State Board of Public Works with the hopes that the project will be passed in principal prior to the issuance of bonds.

It is planned to call an election at an early date for a bond issue of $70,000, the balance of $30,000 being a gift by the Public Works Administration if the project is approved.

Water and power engineers will be called into consultation to pass upon the projects before being submitted to the Federal authorities.

A close check of the assessed valuation of the District is now being made in Nevada City and T L. Chamberlain, attorney for the District is drawing up the preliminary application.

The total cost of the work planned will be $100,000, 30 per cent of which is to be given by the Public Works Administration. The balance would be repaid over a period of twenty-five years at 4 per cent interest.

This work is expected to keep unemployment for the winter in this vicinity at the lowest minimum.

E. E. WOOD WILL OPEN LAW OFFICE IN PORTOLA

E. E. Wood, who came here from Los Angeles several months ago to open a law office, has opened an office in Portola where he will practice and make his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood were in town over the week end to close their local office.

At the weekly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce at the suggestion of a member of the Sportsmen of District 23, a resolution was introduced and unanimously adopted changing many of the fishing laws affecting this district.

It has long been felt that changes in some of the fishing laws affecting this district were desirable. It is proposed to ask the endorsement of these suggested changes from the Associated Sportsmen at their convention to be held next month. This will then be followed up by having the changes enacted into the law at the next meeting of the legislature.

Consideration was also to be given to a request for stricter enforcement of laws. It has been a subject of common discussion among the local sportsmen that illegal, out-of-season and night fishing was too prevalent and that a few of the ardent fishermen were disregarding the law prohibiting fishing at dams.

The resolution is as follows:

WHEREAS, there is a great need for improvement in the fishing conditions of District Twenty-Three, and;

WHEREAS, careful consideration of several features effecting these conditions leads us to believe that a nominal expenditure of time, effort and money by the proper authorities, together with a few minor changes in the present laws would very materially help the fishing conditions in this District, and;

WHEREAS, the San Francisco Fly-Casting Club has demonstrated through several years of operation that its rearing pond on the Truckee River is a decided factor in improving the fishing conditions in the River and;

WHEREAS, it appears necessary to further protect the trout liberated from such ponds, to place a length limit on the fish in possession of fishermen, and;

WHEREAS, a survey made by agents of the Bureau of Fisheries has demonstrated that the young of the fresh water clams, placed in the Truckee River about 30 years ago, are a detriment to the young trout fry, and;

WHEREAS, we believe it to be against the interests of good sportsmanship in trout fishing to permit the use of fresh or artificial spawn in this District;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that this body go on record endorsing the building and operation of rearing ponds by the Fish and Game Commission in District 23, and;

FURTHERMORE, that possesiso of trout less than six inches in length be prohibited in this District, and;

FURTHERMORE, that the Fish and Game Commission be requested to obtain the assistance of the CCC in eradicating the fresh water clam in the Truckee River, and;

FURTHERMORE, that the possession or use of all spawn in District 23 be prohibited.

By United Press

Dispatches telling of a "sock in the eye" administered by an unknown assailant to United States Senator Huey P. Long were gleefully received by most California editors.

Hearty endorsement was given proposals to present a gold medal to the man who blacked the "kingfish's" optic —if the assailant's identity is ever made known.

"Press accounts of Senator Huey Long's fight in a Long Island club leave the reader badly puzzled," said the Marysville Appeal-Democrat. "According to Long, he was attacked by bold, bad men intent on giving him the works, for what reason he does not explain. The other vision, vouched for by New York newspapers, is that the kingfish was in an exceedingly jovial mood at the club, which is one customarily patronized by the social elite and not by gangsters. The gash over Long's eye, the same account attributes to the fist of an engineer who objected to his frivolity. The only thing certain about the episode is that the kingfish has not lost his knack of keeping in the spotlight, whether in or out of the halls of Congress."

Describing the black eye as one of the most famous of this decade, the Oroville Mercury-Register approves the discretion displayed by the "socker" in remaining in the background, stating:

"The country is seeking the man who blacked Huey Long's eye, wanting to make a hero out of him, but he remains modestly, and discreetly, in the background .It is discreet, for Huey might sue him."

After reviewing the several versions of the affair, the Salinas Index-Journal declares:

"More and more does this man become a national disgrace. Added to the sordid tales, which may not be true but which most people believe, of the graft which has prevailed in his state, and to his clownish conduct in the senate, comes this incident, where a United States senator conducts himself like a barroom rowdy, if the most credible story is correct."

"On top of his other troubles," comments the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat, "Huey has been reminded that the senate investigation of the election of Senator John H. Overton, colleague and close political friend of the Louisiana loudspeaker is to be resumed October 16. All in all, the future is not over bright for Huey Long, self-styled Louisiana "kingfish," but in reality a buffoon and misfit and a disgrace to American public life."

"We may never know the true cause of the slugging," remarks the Stockton Record, "although it will readily be conceded that Long got what he deserved. The name of his assailant seems to have been covered up by a gentleman's agreement. That also may remain a mystery. But not since homage was first paid to America's unknown soldier will as many persons rise to bless the unknown socker of Sands Point who finally put Huey Long in his place."

"That this was one of those epic battles you read about seems very clear," concludes the Riverside Daily Press. "What is not so clear, unfortunately, is the identity of the gentleman who collaborated with the senator in the encounter. Here is a man who seems to be hiding his bright light under a bushel. Why cannot he step forth and make known his name for the benefit of his wistfully inquisitive fellow countrymen?"

SOCIAL INSURANCE

At a recent conference the American Association for Old Age Security expressed gratification at the fact that 25 states now have old-age pension laws. The association should be credited with some of this achievement. When it was organized in 1927 only four states had pension laws affecting 1000 persons. Today 100,000 aged are assisted in 25 states. New laws in other states are expected to follow more swiftly hereafter. The Association feels it is now safe to expand its work to other fields. In a published statement it points out:

"The old-age pension laws in existence today can, at best, give security only to persons 65 years of age or over Hundreds of thousands of persons are left helpless many years before that age through the ravages of sickness, because of unemployment and the discrimination against hiring the older workers. Unless provision is made against those other major hazards of modern life, the old-age pension laws cannot fulfill their true function."

For that reason the organization, to be called hereafter the American Association for Social Security, is campaigning for social insurance laws against unemployment, sickness and indigence in old age.

The American public is less opposed to such laws now than it has been in the past. Among the lessons of the depression it has learned that unemployment relief is costly, not only in money, but in morale. Reasonable methods of social insurance are likely to have general approval and acceptance.

A GULF STREAM SUNRISE

Dawn is at hand as the steamer nears the Gulf Stream. A salmon flush is on the sky at the horizon behind a line of jagged clouds that seem to rest on the dark water like a row of trees emerging from a submerged key. Untouched as yet by the coming light, these clouds form a sharp silhouette, running off southward into a bank of smoky mauve mist. Closer to the boat float low-lying clouds, almost black. Some of the distant clouds pile up into mesa-like forms. One great cumulus group has the guise of two fabulous giants jousting—thrust and parry—before a row of three seated and crowned personages, a Wagnerian tableau.

A slash of pale gold crosses the deepening flush, up toward the greenish blue. Dark blue is the sea, and the ship pushes on in a long roll. With the eye level lowered so that the rail cuts along the horizon the clouds toward the north seemingly form a shore line in the sepia sea, complete with islands that is the sky. A strengthening breeze twists some of the nearer clouds into lacy basketry wisps that travel fast.

Pink now is the eastern sky, the clouds like outcropping rocks, here and there patches of flames. Far to the southward detached gray clouds wander wraithlike. Compact has become the jousting group, and its white crest turns rosy. Even as we look the great gray and white mass takes on the guise of a castle, its ruddy turrets reflecting pale pink tints down to the base. From the southwest comes a warm breath, as of the steaming jungle.

Off the water the long row of clouds has lifted and is sailing upward diagonally, as if starting the day's journey after a night's pause. Out of the cloud castle's side emerges a great gargoyle, one arm outstretched as if haranguing the departing argosy. Flames shoot through the billowing light and dark grays behind him, turning his castle into a conflagration, with a crown like snow in the full light of the sun that is not yet in sight.

On the horizon lingering fingers of cloud glow hotter and hotter. A great molten disk edges up. Now the whole of it can be seen and only the eagle may look into its dazzle.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Cross-Eyes in Children Can Usually Be Cured by Consistent Treatment

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

PERHAPS there is no natural facial defect that is more disfiguring and attracts more notice than cross-eyes. The face is the first thing you observe when you see a child. A cross-eye gives you a sensation of shock and surprise that you cannot help showing. The child observes your feeling and resents it and soon commences to avoid meeting strangers

IN THIS day and age there is no reasonable excuse for a child to grow up with cross-eyes, if you begin correction early and keep at it. In the first 3 to 6 months of a child's life it sees objects indefinitely. Its eyes roll around, generally without any effort at co-ordination and with very little control. Not much attention should be paid to this condition, unless one eye stays in one position constantly. This indicates that some of the muscles of the eye are paralyzed and should be given attention at once.

• • •

AFTER six months the eyes may be crossed only when the child is crying or out of humor or frightened. Perhaps one eye constantly turns to one side, usually in. Both or either of these conditions should receive attention at once, because they are very unlikely to outgrow them. Usually both eyes act together to focus on an object and the muscles of both eyes develop together. Occasionally one eye does not see as well as the other, one may be normal and the other short-sighted. In this case the normal eye will see objects and the other one does not. As a result the short-sighted eye will not be used, its muscles will become flacid from lack of use or it will turn back and forth without regard to the object to be observed. Thus it gradually becomes useless and in such a case if an injury occurs to the good eye the child will be almost totally blind.

• • •

NOTHING can be done in a case of uneven eyes, unless the error or errors of refraction are overcome by the use of glasses to correct the vision It is sometimes even wise to shut off the good eye and compel the child to see with the poor eye for a time, so that the defective eye will develop from use and strengthen its muscles of movement and accommodation. This cannot be begun any too early after the age of six or eight months.

• • •

ONLY an expert optician can prescribe for the case and glasses, when used, must be very carefully adjusted and changed as occasion arises. Very frequently after the glasses are worn for a time the eye muscles are strengthened so much that they will accommodate themselves without aid and the eyes remain straight. If they do not, much can be done by training and exercise. Various lights are used, also streoscopic pictures are arranged with numerous attractive objects which the children like and will look at for a long time. This exercise gradually trains the eyes to focus and and become normal.

Capitol News Letter

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—If a theme song were to be written of this week's news at the state capitol it would be entitled: "We'll put 50,000 back to work by January 1."

That is the objective of the tremendous reemployment drive launched by the department of public works. Highway contracts involving well over $2,000,000 were let this week; there'll be about two million more next week, another two million the week following and one million a week thereafter until January 1.

The state has seen nothing like it before. Red tape has been flung aside. Bids are opened one day; contracts let the next. Speed is the watchword. Money is being poured into highway building in a steady stream, and in its wake march thousands of men glad to get back to work.

California stepped gingerly into uncharted tax fields this week. The split-penny" system of sales tax collections is something never tried before in this nation.

After a prolonged hearing with exasperated retail merchants, the board of equalization decided to establish and supervise establishment of the token method of collecting the tax. The state, however, would not back the money with its credit.

These tokens will be of one-eighth cent denomination. The house-wife would buy from the merchant so many tokens. Each five cent purchase would require one. This system will do away with the penny tax on such small purchases as 15 cents—a tax which actually is between 6 and 7 per cent.

Supporters of the Great Central Valley Water project are resigned to an election fight to save their enterprise. The referendum movement against the legislation qualifying the project for inclusion in the federal public works program has apparently succeeded. In fact, there will probably be close to 100,000 names on the petitions whereas only 69,000 are needed.

Governor Rolph has indicated he will call a special election to settle the issue once and for all. It might transpire within the next few months.

OIL FACIAL WILL HELP WHITEN SKIN DRIED BY SUMMER SUNS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THOSE of you who have rapturously pampered your bronzed skins during the summer months are now writing to me begging for magic formulas or miraculous treatments to whiten your skin sufficiently to make it appealing with the new fall costumes. It really is not such a difficult task if you were foresighted enough to keep your skin really in good condition during the summer tanning.

MISS HUNT

If your skin is seared, sallow and sun-dried, however, you had better combine some emergency softening treatments with your bleaching For this purpose the hot oil facial gives promptest results. Alternate it with your bleaching treatments.

First cleanse your skin thoroughly with a liquefying cleansing cream or cleansing oil to take away all of the grime and oil in your skin. Use two or three applications, removing the soiled cream with cleansing tissues and finally with towels wrung out of hot water.

During this manipulation, massage your skin gently with up and out movements to stimulate the action of the muscles and speed up the circulation. Now pour a fourth cup of olive oil or special facial oil into a saucer and set it in a pan of hot water to keep it quite warm. Lean back in a comfortable chair or lie down on a sofa with the oil, strips of gauze, pads of cotton and a good astringent in easy reach.

Massage the warm oil into your face and throat, then dip short strips of gauze into the warn, oil and smooth them over your skin. When you have finished, you should have a complete mask of oily gauze covering your skin. Over this pour, a drop at a time, the remaining warm oil. Dip two cotton pads in very warm water or in witch hazel, and place over your eyelids. Now you can just sit and relax or take a nap, if you wish, for the longer the oily mask remains on your face the softer your skin will be.

ANSWER TO QUERY

Dear Miss Hunt: I am in mourning for a very dear member of the family I suppose you will say that I shouldn't be thinking of beauty problems, but I am, I look ghastly in black and I wish you could tell me something to do so I will not be so depressing to myself and to others. Mrs. K. O'L.

Answer: I believe that you are entirely right. Black is certainly depressing with some skins and you should do all that you can to enliven your complexion and to relieve the monotony of the color whenever possible. This is especially important if there are children in the family whose sensitive natures will be shocked by ugliness of any kind.

Use a powder that is slightly pinkish in tone—a creamy pink or rose beige that will give life and color to your skin. Use just the subtles shading of rouge with a hint of orange in it and a lipstick that will match the shade of rouge. You needn't use enough to be obvious at all, but just enough to relieve the grayish skin tones brought out by black. And use just a whiff of green eye shadow and a touch of black mascara to make your eyes seem larger and brighter.

Buck hunting, the long anticipated sport of almost all men-folk, is now in full swing and excitement is running high, as hunters arrive back home proudly displaying their conquests, or telling disgustedly about the "big fellows that got away." Brent Hass of Tahoe Cedars was the first local party known to return with the limit, his two fine bucks being downed near Mud Lake. Others reported to have been lucky were Jack Matthews, Jim McCay and P. H. Strosnider. Many old timers went out at the crack of dawn September 16th and altho they carried guns that were oiled and polished, wore their best "sneakers" and employed all the "tricks of the trade," still many returned empty-handed voicing assertion that altho some doe and fawn were sighted the bucks were conspicuous by their absence. But they still have nearly a month to change their luck, so perhaps the next few weeks will tell a different tale.

Miss Mildred Watson has secured a position as designer in a large San Francisco department store where she expects to remain for the winter months.

A fire broke out on Monday night along the shore near Homewood and it is believed to have started by flying sparks from a smoldering campfire left by picnicers. Jack Daley of Crystal Springs, who was standing nearby at the time the Bush boy fell into the water, jumped into the water clothes and all and brought the boy out after he had sank for the second time, Owing to fright the Bush boy held his breath but suffered none the worse for his experience

The traffic officer of the Inspection Station just west of Truckee arrived on the scene and assumed command of traffic and routed it around the scene of the accident. This particular stretch in the highway has been the scene of three minor traffic accidents this summer. ## SALES TAX PENNIES HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH NRA PROGRAM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—The pennies you pay for the state sales tax have nothing whatever to do with the NRA program, a fact James R. Wilson, NRA administrator here, would like to have widely understood.

Wilson said his men, who have been canvassing residential districts for signatures to NRA consumers pledge cards, reported that in the foreign element sections several residents refused to sign. Wilson said the refusals were due to the mistaken belief that the sales tax was connected with the NRA program.

California's Patrol Most Efficient Ot Western States

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—Some 500 trim, efficient and courteous young men compose what is generally conceded the West's most capable state highway patrol—an organization which has been a model, in whole or in part, for states as far east as Michigan and as far south as Texas.

Representatives of the California State Highway Patrol have actually organized similar bodies in Arizona and Wyoming. They have offered helpful suggestions to Washington New Mexico, Texas, Oregon and Michigan.

At the head of California's mobile little Army of highway patrolmen stands E. Raymond Cato, its chief who assumed charge at the beginning of the Rolph Administration after 21 years' experience with the Los Angeles police department When Cato was "loaned" to the state—for he still retains his rank in the southern metropolis—he was a Police Captain.

Since he took charge he has concentrated on efficiency, mobility courtesy and trim personal appearance.

During recent emergencies in California the efficiency of the California Highway Patrol was demonstrated and the rapidity with which it could be mobilized was shown during the recent earthquake in Southern California.

Twice in recent years proposals to establish a state constabulary-something along the line of Pennsylvania or Oregon system—have been considered and voted down by the Legislature. Cato was asked his views on the question.

"We are highly satisfied with the personnel and operation of our present system of highway patrol," he observed. "However, if the legislature, in its wisdom, saw fit to establish a state wide law enforcement agency with full police powers this organization could change over to the new system very quickly and effectively.

When Is A Lion Not A Lion?

Bill Englehart Sr., President of the Truckee Lions Club, is sure having his hands full trying to keep tab on the Traveling Lion.

A short time ago the Truckee Lions made a flying trip to Portola and came back with Mr. Lion. The following night at the regular meeting the Lion disappeared and Bill Sr. as custodian was blamed for the loss. However, the Lion showed up a week later none the worse for wear.

Last Wednesday, Bill Sr. takes Mr. Lion over to the club rooms for the meeting and did not miss the cage until the meeting was about half over. Six members of the Reno Den had come to claim the Lion and when the time came to present the Lion, well, to the strains of a lively march in comes the lion, minus the cage. The two members who had appropriated Mr. Lion beat a hasty retreat to their car where they had secreted the supposed Lion, but on opening the cage found to their surprise that there had no Lion at all, just a couple of granite rocks. Was my face red For expert opinions on granite rocks interview Lions Tom and Art

TOY WAGON MOVES FAMILY TO IDAHO

NAMPA, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—F. W. Lowe, modern hand cart pioneer, and his family of eight, settled down in Nampa today on a farm to which they had trekked from Kansas City, Mo.

Low arrived here with his family and household goods after walking the entire distance pulling a small toy wagon. His wife carried the youngest of six children, being relieved now and then by one of her daughters.

The father said he had tried unsuccessfully for five years to operate a farm in Kansas and decided to move to Idaho. Without money excepting what little he obtained from sale of their furniture, Lowe and his family started westward.

Farmers here obtained a small plot of land on which Lowe hoped to make a new start. He was given food and clothing by neighbors and today was apparently happy in his new surroundings.

Harry Pomin, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pomin, accompanied by his wife and daughter Betsy, is visiting his parents at Tahoe City

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scurfield of Tahoe were agreebaly surprised when they received as visitors Mr and Mrs. Joseph Boyd of Penn and his brother Thomas Scurfield accompained by his wife and daughter, also of Penn. They left on Sunday for Southern California, but plan to return again to Tahoe in the near future.

Next Sunday, September 24th will be a big day at Tahoe City, for it is the day upon which will be held the Second Annual Invitational Golf Championship Tournament given by the Lake Tahoe-Sierra Association at Tahoe. A large crowd is anticipated, all members of the association having been invited, with entries expected from Reno Sacramento and other neighboring towns. Last years honors went to Mr. A. P. Crist who, it is expected, will give the boys a good run for their money again this year. Mr. H. F. Droste, genial secretary of the association, who appeared last year on the morning of the tournament with a huge white bandage on his thumb (thought secretly by many to have been only his alibi) is being suspected as the dark horse in the approaching affair.

An exciting feature this year will be what is known as a Calcutta Pool, this being a proposition where by each player is bid upon, the highest bidder depositing the amount he bid in cash with the management, thereafter, so to speak owning the player. If his man should win highest honors in the contest, he gets the entire pot, or the full amount bid upon each and every conestant. (Which should come in right handy with Christmas just around the corner).

Nine holes are to be played in the morning with luncheon at 12:30 at Tahoe Inn, where Constable Bechdolt will set up a toast for the players. Immediately after lunch the "auction" will be held, which should be a real comedy! Nine holes more will be played in the afternoon based on handicap. For the regular players three prizes will be given; first prize will be awarded the man with the best low gross score, second goes to him with the best low net score, and third to the one with the second best low net score. The course is in excellent condition and the weather continues fair. It sounds like a grand show folks, so you'd better be there to see the fun!

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tabler of San Jose are at Nelson Heights.

Edward Greely, assistant at Obexers all summer, has gone to Redwood City.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson of Tahoe Pines, will remain until Christmas and may stay all winter

State Has Power To Slaughter All Diseased Animals

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—Significant and far reaching legislation affecting California's huge livestock industry was passed during the last session of the legislature.

Some of the laws were radical innovations—such as the new range law, and an act empowering the state to slaughter diseased cattle.

At the end of the fiscal year 1932 there were 664,497 head of stock cows and bulls in the state valued at $10,786,681. Nevada county's share of the total number was 2,200.

Controversies over the use of the range on unappropriated U. S. lands (public domain) will be largely checked by virtue of an act which gives a livestockman who has used any portion of the public lands for five consecutive years exclusive use thereon.

If a serious livestock disease breaks out in the future—such as hoof and mouth disease—the department of agriculture is now clothed with legal authority to condemn and slaughter diseased animals. It is provided, however, the owner of the livestock shall be reimbursed to the full value of the confiscated animals.

Humane treatment of livestock in transit, was made an absolute necessity by passage of a law providing animals being transported by truck or trailer must not be transported longer than 28 consecutive hours. At the end of that interval, the livestock must be taken from the vehicles, fed and watered for five hours. At the express permit of the owner, the animals may be kept in transit for 36 consecutive hours.

Of importance to the small farmer, was a law permitting a livestock owner to slaughter his own beef and sell it to persons in his own vicinity without being subjected to state inspection.

Poultry is now legally classified as livestock, by virtue of another act. Moreover, poultry owners are required to register brands with the department of agriculture.

Clear Track Ahead For The Corn-Cob Pipe Code

WASHINGTON—With justificable pride in the golden bowl and proof in abundance that it has not gone the route of the buggy whip and other items of Americana, the corn-cob pipe, product of mother earth and genuine aid to philosophy, is distinctly on the up and up and must have a code. In the name of "Manufacturers of Corn Cob Pipe Trade Group," application has been filed with the NRA with provisions for a 40-hour week and minimum wage of 25 cents per hour.

CURIOUS GIRL FINDS JUMPING WASP EGGS

PORTERVILLE, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP) — "Jumping eggs," hundreds of them in a small glass jar, were displayed by the Porterville Recorder and the Chamber of Commerce.

Betty Stadtmiller found them under an oak tree and brought them to Porterville where horticultural inspectors explained they were wasp eggs. The jumping, the inspectors explained, was caused by small wasps within.

STATE HEALTH BOARD SUSPENDS RULING REGARDING PERMITS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—To expedite state approval of water and sewer projects necessary before federal aid may be obtained under the National Recovery Act, the state board of health has suspended the rule requiring a 30-day recess before permits are granted.

In the future, the board announced, permits will be granted upon presentation of projects acceptable to the board, the permit to be effective on a date to be fixed in each case.

The change in rules were expected to be an incentive for advancing projects to improve sanitation and assist the government in its unemployment program.

SANDLOT PLAYER TO GET MAJOR TRYOUT

TULARE, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—The dream of every sandlot ball player has materialized for Bus Payton, catcher for a Tulare dairy baseball team for the Visalia Night Hawks, fast semi-pro crew.

Bus has a contract with the Detroit Tigers, after he made good in a tryout at San Mateo. He will join the club in spring training next year at Shreveport, La.

Grads All Get Jobs

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 21—(UP)—Few schools can boast the employment record of the California Nautical school.

A report of the state department of education shows that out of 44 cadets graduated last month, 43 have obtained jobs with various steamship lines, and a position for the 44th member of the class was expected "within the next day or two."

HAVE tales of the wonderful creations of the French cuisine, tempted you to visit this romantic land of gustatory delights? If you cannot realize your ambition for travel, at least you can enjoy some of the dishes that are served in the world-famous old inns and costliest hotels of the continent right at your own table.

Many of the ingredients that go into the making of the delectable dishes of France are to be found on your pantry shelf. If not, you can get them at almost any grocery store or delicatessen. One of the secrets of the subtle blending of flavors in the recipes, lies in long, slow cooking. Another is the use of the finest wines for cooking and flavoring many of the choicest dishes.

Of course you will have to make allowances for these things when you try the recipes in your own kitchen, but do not let this discourage you. There are substitutes that give good results. Cooking wines or white grape juice may be used successfully in any of the recipes. When your family begs for something "different" just try one of the following dishes on them.

Filet Sole Normandie

Filet sole Normandie is a less simple creation. Poach the filets in a buttered dish with a broth made by boiling the fish bones and trimmings in water, pouring off and adding an equal amount of white wine (white grape juice). When the fish is tender arrange the filets in individual baking dishes and surround with poached oysters, shrimps and small mushrooms browned slightly in butter. Set in the oven to brown lightly.

Crepes Suzette

Crepes suzette are the favorite dessert of Americans visiting France. To make them mix well three large tablespoons of flour, one egg, half a teaspoon of sugar and a pinch of salt. Add a tablespoon of melted butter and as much milk as needed to make the mixture quite thin. Spread the batter very thin on a hot griddle and cook. Make a paste from one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon powdered sugar and a very little orange juice. Spread this over the cooked crepes. Fold them and sprinkle with more powdered sugar. The French surround the little cakes with brandy or a liqueur and set it afire.

Ragout of Mutton

A perfectly grand dish for a chilly evening is the ragout of mutton. Cut three pounds of shoulder of mutton in square pieces. Brown in butter with one large onion slices and a clove of minced garlic. Stir in two tablespoons flour. Have ready half a pound of white pea beans that have been soaked overnight and a dozen prunes from which the pits have been removed Put on the fire with water to cover and when hot combine with the mutton. Season with salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Cover tightly and cook over a slow fire for two hours.

AMAZING NEW TIRE WILL SAVE LIVES

No Extra Cost to Public. Come in and See the New Silvertown

THIS year thousands will be killed or injured by accidents due to blow-outs. Will you be one of them? Not if you use this new kind of tire . . . this tire that makes you 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds.

Today's high speeds—40, 50, 60 and 70—cause terrific heat INSIDE the tire. This heat causes rubber and fabric to separate. A blister forms . . . and grows bigger and bigger . . . until BANG! A blow-out! And you're headed for trouble or worse.

To protect you from blow-outs, every new Goodrich Safety Silvertown Tire has the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This new invention resists heat . . . rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus blisters don't form inside the tire. The CAUSE of blow-outs is eliminated beforehand.

The best part of this good news is that you don't have to pay a single penny extra for this Golden Ply protection. Thanks to the Goodrich crusade to save lives, we can give you this new Safety Silvertown for the same price as any other standard tire.

Why take chances? That blister . . . that blow-out in the making . . . may be in your tires right now. Come in today.
